TOLD THE STORY OF THE KILLING

Downing Pleaded
For His Life
In Court.

MURDERED MEN
ATTACKED HIM

Prisoner on the Stand in His own Behalf and Makes a Good Impression.

Charles Downing, accused of killing George Poi at a resort in Nuuanu valley last March, was on the stand yesterday in the Circuit Court in his own behalf. Downing made a good appearance on the stand and told a clear concise story and was for the most part frank and open in his answers to the questions put to him. He is a mild-looking young man, with blue eyes and a sweeping mustache.

Downing's testimony occupied most of yesterday afternoon. On direct examination he told of going to the Pahu place in Nuuanu valley with a man named Haskell on the evening of March 10th. He had considerable money on his person, about $30 or more, as he had been recently paid off at Kailih camp where he had been acting as a guard for two months past. Haskell and he accompanied several sailors to Pahu's place and there the party partook freely of swipes, although Downing stated that he did not drink much of the liquor.

Later in the evening a game of "crap" or "7-11" was begun and most of the evening was passed thus, the game breaking up at about 2 o'clock in the morning. During the progress of the game Downing stated that he had exhibited his sack of gold as he had to make change on several occasions. After the game was over he went to another house with a native woman named Lahapa, and she gave him some more swipes. A number of men were waiting outside the house and Downing asked the woman to invite them in and give them some of the swipes, but this she refused to do, telling him that these men intended to "do him bad," or "do him up." He did not believe this, he said, but when she offered to show him the way out of the house he accepted the suggestion.

"The woman went out of the house ahead of me," the defendant went on, "and as I came out of the door I saw these men standing around the house. So I reached my hand in my pocket and opened a knife I had there. Before I had taken more than a step or two out of the house I felt a hard blow on the back of the neck and as I turned to see who had hit me something struck me on the side of the head and knocked me down. Then somebody jumped on top of me and began to choke me. With my knife in my hand I tried to beat the man off who had jumped on top of me. I pushed him away and another man grabbed me by the neck. He swept my knife through the air and struck several of them and then I jumped up as soon as I could. Just then Haskell came out of the house with a lamp and asked me what was the matter. Some one threw a piece of scantling at the lamp and put it out. I shouted to Haskell to look out for himself and jumped over into a taro patch near by."

Downing went on to relate how he had spent the night under a hedge near the house and had then gone to his home. He described also the cuts he had received in the affray, as if from knives and the bruises on the back and side of the head. He stated also that when the scuffle was over he could not find his sack of money and that he had it before the row began.

Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth told of arresting Downing at his room and that he made no attempt to conceal what happened simply claiming to him that he had been held up by the natives and had used his knife in self defense.

The cross examination of Downing will continue this morning and it is likely that the case will be concluded today.

OLD CASE REVIVED.
Suit was begun yesterday by the Makee Sugar Company against Tuck Chew to cancel a lease which was made in 1894. This lease has been the subject of controversy in the courts for four years and more and the case has been once to the Supreme Court.

SUES FOR PROPERTY.
Mrs. Emma M. Nakuina brought suit yesterday against Fanny Strauch and Pa-aoakalani to recover certain property in Palama which she claims the defendants have wrongfully occupied for some time past. She asks restitution of the property and likewise $2,000 damages.

KAMALO CASE AGAIN.
Judge Humphreys shut down rather harshly on an agreement which had been made between the attorneys in the Kamalo case. It had been decided among them that the defendants might have upheld the plaintiff's bill of complaint, which was filed on November 8, 1900. A stipulation to this effect was drawn up and filed in the Circuit Court.

But when the stipulation was presented to Judge Humphreys for approval he endorsed the following upon it:
"I cannot approve this stipulation. I do not think that any further or other answer will subserve the ends of equity. The amendment to the bill was allowed so that the allegations might conform to the proof. The opinion of the Court has been rendered though not actually reduced to writing."

SUIT AGAINST DALY ENDED.
The suit recently brought by Lewers & Cooke against Margaret Daly and others was brought to a conclusion yesterday, the plaintiffs filing a discontinuance. The case was one of several which arose out of the sudden death of L. N. Hayden, the contractor, Hayden, at the time of his death, was building a house for the Dalys and at his death suit was brought by Lewers & Cooke as materialmen to secure an indebtedness of $1,176.17 contracted by Mr. Hayden.

BISHOP BANK ANSWERS.
By H. E. Waity, the bank of Bishop & Co. has filed answer in the maintenance suit recently brought by Mrs. Annie Herbst against August Herbst and the Bishop Bank and others, wherein they deny that they are in possession of any money or other property belonging to Herbst.

KING ESTATE.
W. O. Smith has filed in the Circuit Court his accounts as guardian of the estate of R. D. King, Wm. H. King, S. W. King, Daniel King and Helen King, and has petitioned for his final discharge. The accounts show receipts of $1,168.37 and expenditures of $238.32, leaving a balance in favor of the estate of $930.05.

CRIMP WAS FINED.
William McCarthy, the crimp, pleaded guilty to the offense of retaining a sailor's baggage, in the United States District Court yesterday morning, and paid a fine of $25.

AH CHEE GOES FREE.
The case against A. L. Chee, a Chinese of Waimua, who was accused of having opium in his possession, was dismissed yesterday on motion of the prosecution.

BILL OF EXCEPTIONS FILED.
A bill of exceptions has been filed in the Circuit Court by P. L. Weaver, attorney for the defendants in H. M. Mist vs. S. M. W. Kawelo and W. R. Castle, trustee.

Union Pacific Railway Company Is Getting out a New Folder.

R. W. Shingle is in receipt of a letter from the passenger department of the Union Pacific Railway Company relative to the new edition of their elaborate Hawaiian folder which is being gotten up. The second edition, the department says, will take even better than the first.

"The department has been enabled to unearth a great many interesting facts concerning Hawaii," the letter states, "from old records at Washington, Honolulu and elsewhere. It is the desire of the Union Pacific Railway in getting up this folder to look at the islands from a cosmopolitan point of view." The folder will elaborate on the trade statistics of the islands, together with W. R. Castle's temperature observations for 1899. New photographs are to be added of recent views of Honolulu harbor, new buildings, new hotels and general improvements. The folder will probably be issued before the Christmas holidays.
